THE POPE IS SLOWLY SINKING

A NEW CRISIS APPEARS IN LEO'S CONDITION.

Is Suffering Much From Uneasiness and Difficult Breathing—Another Operation May Be Performed To Day.

Rome, July 16, 2:55 a. m.—The pope's condition this morning is even less satisfactory than yesterday morning and he suffered from much uneasiness and difficulty in breathing until relieved to some extent by injection of caffeine. A new crisis in the pope's condition presented itself yesterday when the doctors were confronted on one hand with the apparently imperative necessity of another operation and on the other hand with the danger that such an operation in the patient's present enfeebled condition might prove fatal. This dilemma was canvassed by Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni throughout the day. At their earlier conference there was some prospect the operation might not occur and the doctors left the sick room without arriving at a definite determination as to when it would take place. They expressed a belief, however, that a delay until to day would serve a useful purpose in permitting larger extraction of serum in case the operation was undertaken.

Meantime the pope continued in a state of great depression. Thanks to a fairly good afternoon's sleep physicians were able to issue a bulletin at 7:20 p. m. showing there had been no vital change in the normal progress of the disease, though the same serious rapidity of respiration as was noticed in the morning had again to be recorded. So painful had the latter become that those present in the sick room described the pontiff as literally panting for his life's breath. Later the pope was sufficiently at ease to receive Cardinal Rampolla and h isohliness conferred upon him enlarged authority made necessary by the present illness for the executive administration of papal affairs. It is understood one result of this action will probably be speedy appointment of a successor to Volpini as secretary of the consistoral congregation.

Rome, July 16.—The tenacity of Pope Leo is most admirable, not only in his organism but in his feeling. The best example therefore is perhaps continued proofs of the confidence his holiness bestows on Rampolla, who, after faithfully serving the pope sixteen years, is now being made the object of most bitter attacks, especially during the last period, because of the Francophile attitude of the papacy. The pontiff seems to have had an intuition that while he lies with one foot in the grave Rampolla's adversaries are beginning to take advantage of his tottering power to pull down the idol which until yesterday they worshipped, so his holiness leaves nothing unattempted to show the world up to the last moment how much he trusts his secretary of state. No one was admitted to the sick room to day except the cardinal secretary of state, who was only allowed in on the repeated request of the pope, who said to him that he desired ot confirm and extend the power his eminence already exercises because of his position, and authorized him to take a measure which in ordinary times would necessitate direct intervention of the pontiff "in recognition of his personal devotion to the pontiff and services he had rendered the church." The pope was much pleased when Rampolla informed him of the universal manifestation of sympathy toward his holiness, coming from all, even from non-Catholics.

FINAL PREPARATIONS.

Paris, July 16.—According to a dispatch from Rome preparations for the pope's death are continuing at the vatican. Sisters of the order of St. Vincent de Paul are sewing mourning hangings in the court of Charlemagne. Cardinal Oreglia has decided no unathorized person shall set foot in the vatican during the conclave. Accordingly he has had a special medal struck without which no one will be allowed to enter after the pope's death.

CITED FOR CONTEMPT.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 16.—John J. Condiff, editor of the Sedalia Capital, and J. M. Shepherd, editor of the Warrensburg Standard-Herald, have been cited for contempt in criticising a recent decision of the supreme court. The case was a damage suit against the Missouri Pacific, which the supreme court reversed and decided for the railroad. The article in question is said to have charged corruption of the court and attacked the court in strong language.

CUBAN WAR VETERANS

Detroit, July 16.—Under beautifully bright skies the military parade which opened the reunion of the Society of Santiago de Cuba and the fifth army corps marched through the central business portion of the city to day. Wheeler, Major General Hawkins and several other military men of prominence occupied carriages after the military division. Maj. Gen. Wm. R. THE JEWISH PETITION

Russia Declines to Consider or Receive any Communication on Kischineff Incident.

Washington, July 16.—It was learned to night the state department has received a reply from Russia stating that it neither would receive nor consider the matter of the Jewish petition on the subject of the Kischineff incident. This information came in the form of a cablegram from Riddle, the American charge at St. Petersburg, to whom was committed the delicate task of inquiring of the Russian government as to its attitude with respect to presentation of the petition. It is believed this will end the matter and no further steps will be taken by this government to bring the view of the petitioners to the attention of Russia, although as yet no consideration has been given by the president to the course to be pursued in the light of Russia's response to our inquiry.

The reply that Russia would make to all suggestions on the subject of the Kischineff massacre was forecasted very clearly by the Associated Press some weeks ago in an authorized statement, when the public was definitely informed Russia regarded the affair as an internal matter as to which she in the exercise of her own sovereignty must refuse to receive suggestions from any other government or outside source.

P. M. ARTHUR IS DEAD

Chief of Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Expires While Making Speech.

Winnipeg, July 16.—P. M. Arthur, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, dropped dead at midnight while speaking at a banquet closing the convention of the order. Mr. Arthur had just arisen to respond to a toast and repeated the words, "It may be my parting words to many of you," when he fell backward and expired a few minutes afterward.

THE MANCHURIAN QUESTION.

Washington, July 16.—The Manchurian question is settled satisfactorily to this government and assurance has been received from the Chinese government that it will in the near future open as treaty ports several ports now closed to the world's trade. The Russian government conveyed a formal assurance to the United States that it will not in any way oppose any such opening. While ports to be opened are yet to be specified it is gathered from communications received they are Moukden, the principal inland port of Manchuria, and Tatetang Kao, at the mouth of the Yalu river. The state department is highly gratified at this outcome, feeling that is has secured not only for American commerce but for commerce of the world at large a very substantial gain.

Prominent Clergymen From All Parts of Country Among the Speakers—About 17,000 Delegates in Attendance.

Detroit, July 16.—When the convention of Epworth leaguers opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon it was estimated there were 15,000 leaguers in the city. There were three great meetings one in Tent Ontario, corner of Fourth and Lafayette streets, presided over by Rev. Albert Carman, of Toronto; the second in the Detroit opera house, at which Rev. H. W. Featherstone, of Harrisburg, Miss., was chairman, and the third in Central Methodist church, at which Bishop Earl Cranston was presiding officer. Each meeting followed the same program.

Welcome addresses were made by Governor BlBiss, Mayor Maybury and ministers of the city, to which responses were made by league officers. Watchwords of the convention are "Waiting, witnessing and working," and speakers in their keynote addresses followed out in a general way the ideas represented by these three words.

To night four great pentecostal meetings were held by the Epworth leaguers. At Tent Ontario, where the principal meeting was held, Bishop Galloway, of Jackson, Miss., bishop of the Methodist church south, spoke on "The Eighteenth Century Pentecost," causing great enthusiasm among the 7,000 people who heard him. Bishop Joyce, of Minneapolis, and Rev. E. M. Mills, of Elmira, N. Y., were the other speakers. Similar programs were followed at the other three meetings, the speakers being prominent clergymen from various parts of the country. When efforts of the striking teamsters and their sympathisers failed to day to prevent delivery of freight from the Kellogg company to railroad warehouses President Young of the Teamsters' National union declared he would to morrow demand that the Chicago-Edison company shut off the power at the Kellogg plant. Should the company refuse he declared that he would shut off the Edison company's supply and force the company to shut down.

THE TREATMENT OF CRIMINALS

Question Discussed by the Illinois State's Attorneys' Association.

Galesburg, July 16.—Questions concerning the proper treatment of criminals occupied the second day's session of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association in session in this city.

E. A. Snively, secretary of the state board of pardons, gave an address regarding the relationship between the state board of pardons and the state's attorneys. Mr. Snively declared that the parole law is here to stay and that while it may be modified the principle will remain.

Oliver A. Harker, of Carbondale, the new dean of the law school of the University of Illinois, spoke of the state's attorney and public safety. He considered especially the question of municipal government and declared that many cities are governed by unscrupulous rings. The relief, he said, would be found in a vigorous pursuit of the violators of the law. The city rottenness, he said, was even extended to the state legislature in some states.

Boston and Philadelphia were cited as instances of notorious corruptness. He named the elective franchises as the most productive part of this rottenness and said that in no countrries are crimes punished in so lax a way as in the United States.

He declared that there has not been an election in Illinois in years that has been free from vote buying. He said that the enfranchisement of the negro, soon after its establishment, led to mercenary motives in municipal elections and that unscrupulous white men followed the negroes' example until the practice has become general.

F. W. Blair of Chicago, T. H. B. Camp of Macomb and Charles S. Deneen of Chicago also spoke in regard to the board of pardons. Mr. Deneen declared that it was not fulfilling its mission and that three men should not be allowed to fix the time of imprisonment of the criminal. He said that the jury hearing the case should fix the maximum limit.

Judge J. L. Longnecker, of Chicago, spoke of the codification of the criminal laws.

ROOSEVELT MAY VISIT PEORIA.

Peoria, July 16.—It is a possibility as well as a probability that President Roosevelt may visit Peoria this fall. He is coming to Chicago to visit at that time to formally open the fat stock show in that city. The president is an honorary member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, having been made so at the national convention of the order at Chattanooga last September. When he comes to Chicago Grand Master Hanahan and Grand Secretary-Treasurer Arnold will go to Chicago and invite him to come to this city as the guest of the brotherhood and inspect the headquarters here.

Danville, July 16.—At a meeting held by Northcott camp, Modern Woodmen of America, Tuesday night it was decided to take in hand the management of a carnival to be held in September. The merchants of the city will be asked to lend their aid to the undertaking, and as several old-time carnival experts are among the numbers of the Woodmen the affair will be a success from the start.

REPUBLICANS OF KENTUCKY

NOMINATE COLONEL BELKNAP FOR GOVERNOR.

Was Chosen Unanimously—An Enthusiastic Meeting—Bradley Refuses to be a Candidate—The Platform.

Louisville, Ky., July 16.—Col. Morris B. Belknap, a wholesale merchant of Louisville, well known throughout the country, was unanimously nominated for governor by the Republicans this evening. Former Governor Bradley's name was called by officers of the convention notwithstanding the fact he declared he would not accept the nomination. Clifton J. Pratt was the other candidate voted for. Belknap was nominated on the first ballot.

The platform congratulated the people on the prosperity of the country under "Republican policies that have maintained public honor, fostered industry, stimulated enterprise, extended American commerce, strengthened American influence and ennobled citizenship by giving security of labor and capital alike and insuring every man who works a standard of living and an expectation worthy of American civilization and civic sovereignty."

The platform declares for continuance of existing Republican financial and tariff policies; approves the administration of President Roosevelt, especially in the Philippines, Cuban, Venezuelan, coal strike and canal matters; also his enforcement of the law against trusts. "He has shown himself a strong executive as he is an ideal citizen," says the resolutions, "and we heartily and enthusiastically are for his nomination for the presidency in 1904."

The remainder of the platform is devoted to state affairs, in which lawlessness is denounced and the Democratic administration condemned. After Belknap's speech of acceptance an adjournment was taken and the rest of the ticket completed at the night session.

SYMPATHY FROM PROTESTANTS.

Rome July 16.—A telegram from the Associated Press having been forwarded to Cardinal Rampolla, informing him that on Sunday, July 12, prayers were offered in Protestant churches in the United States for the recovery of the pope, the cardinal replied expressing the hope the "holy father's health will allow him, when the opportune moment comes, to inform him of the contents of the telegram." The reply continues: "The very great lesire always felt by his holiness for reunion of dissenting churches will certainly render this demonstration of interest of American Protestant churches most acceptable." It is believed Cardinal Rampolla submitted the Associated Press telegram to the pope at to day's audience when speaking to his holiness of the universal manifestation of sympathy, even from non-Catholics.

A DELICATE SITUATION

CAUSED BY ANNEXATION OF SOUTH SEA ISLANDS.

British Foreign Office Asks an Explanation From America—Land Formerly Belonged to the Sultan of Sulu.

London, July 16.—According to the Chronicle the action of America in annexing islands off Borneo raises an exceedingly delicate situation and the British foreign office has asked Washington for an explanation. The islands concerned, say the papers, are a group of seven which originally belonged to the sultan of Sulu, from whom they passed by a charter in 1881 to control of the British North Borneo company, whose officers confirm that they are undoubtedly British territory. They are insignificant in size, but of the highest strategic importance, dominating Sanakan harbor and Labukay. The American side of the question as given by the United States embassy, says the Chronicle, is that the islands are undoubtedly American by right of conquest, having belonged to the Philippines and the sultan of Sulu having confirmed and acknowledged American supremacy over them. The course taken was to demonstrate America's right and establish a more clearly defined line between American possessions in the Philippines and Sulu seas and territories of the British Borneo company. The islands had never been occupied by any European nation and it is unknown whether Spain ever recognized the trading treaty which existed between the Borneo company and inhabitants of the islands.

WORK OF THE W. R. C.

Circular Letter Showing What This Patriotic Society Has Accomplished.

A circular letter has just been issued, which sets forth clearly the great work that has been done and is being done by the Woman's Relief Corps:

All over our great country members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief Corps have been observing their annual Memorial day. Each year the interest in this sacred festival seems to increase rather than to diminish, and it is right and just that it should be so.

As these grand object-lessons in patriotism—the brave men who went out from '61 to '65, and offered all that life held dear to them, and life itself, to save the union—as these, one by one, drop from the ranks, and no one arises to fill the vacancies—the work of the W. R. C. increases.

For over twenty years this organiaztion has worked side by side, and hand in hand, with the Grand Army of the Republic. And in this connection there has been some misapprehension as to eligibility to membership in the Woman's Relief Corps. As in the dark days from '61 to '65 the work of caring for the boys in blue was not confined to their own families, but all the loyal girls and women united to make bandage strip lint, and do the thousand things which alleviated suffering, and made life at the front more bearable, so now all loyal women are eligible and welcome to the W. R. C. And certainly the object for which all work is so worthy, it seems strange that all women are not interested in it. Acknowledged since its foundation as the true auxiliary of the G. A. R. it has endeavored to live up to its high calling, but the women of this order do their work so quietly and modestly, that the results are sometimes undervalued.

It is the largest patriotic and benevolent society in the world, and has spent many thousands of dollars in its work, but if the W. R. C. had never spent a penny in relief to the veteran soldier, or his widow, or orphan, if it had never done one of the thousand things it has done to honor the dead and living heroes, and to inculcate lessons of patriotism in the young—it should still be credited as the power which has uplifted a vast army of women by broadening their lives and widening their influence—by teaching them to think and express that thought. Abraham Lincoln said: "The Lord must have loved the common people, for he made so many of them," and it is the women of this class who have been helped and uplifted by the W. R. C.

The W. R. C. originated the teaching of patriotism in the public schools and over 10,000,000 school children salute the flag as taught by our order.

The first American institution that followed the army into the Philippines was teaching the origin and meaning of the flag, and the flag salute as taught by the W. R. C. and now there has come a call from Honolulu to the W. R. C. for the best way of teaching patriotism.

From its organization until June 30, 1902, the W. R. C. has expended for relief $2,347,956.04.

During the past year the national organization has expended for relief, $100,008.91; for W. R. C. home, $11,263.71; for army nurses not in W. R. C. home, $130; for the McKinley Memorial fund, $1,000; for Southern Memorial day, $855.45; for Sons of Veterans' Memorial university, $127; for Andersonville prison property, $1,237.80.

The department of Illinois W. R. C. expended for relief during year, $4,000; turned over to posts, $2,705.40; estimated relief other than money, $5,000.

Matt Starr Corps No. 109, has expended for relief for the year ending June 30, 1903, $19.05; estimated value other than money, $35.69; to McKinley Memorial fund, $5; to Mother Bickerdyke Memorial fund, $2; to Memorial day south, $1.

ILLINOIS EDITORS' OPINIONS.

NO OCCASION TO GET EXCITED.

Chicago Inter Ocean: The governorship of Illinois is a permanent institution—permanent as the commonwealth itself. There is not the slightest danger that it will get away. Neither is there the slightest danger that it will become vacant if busy people do not take steps a year and a half in advance to fill it.

Hon. Richard Yates is the present governor of Illinois. Under the law he will continue to be governor until January, 1905. We are now in July, 1903. There is no mad haste about determining whether he or some other man, and, if some other man, what other man, is to sit in the mansion from January, 1905 to January, 1909.

WHAT THE FIGURES SHOW.

LaSalle Tribune: The Inter Ocean prints figures showing that out of 46,500 votes Mr. Deneen is the choice of only 749 as candidate for governor.

MAKES A PREDICTION.

Harrisburg Herald: Deneen stock will be below par inside of the next six months.

Daily Thought for the day.

THE CITY OF COLOR.

NEW YORK A PICTURE OF PLEASING CONTRASTS IN HUES.

The American Metropolis In This Respect Surpasses All the Great Monotone Tinted Capitals of the Eastern(?) World.

New York has been written about from almost every possible point of view—architectural, commercial, political and social. Yet so far as we know it, has never been properly appreciated for the one thing in which it surpasses all the other great capitals of the occidental world, and that is for its color. Those of us who live here all our lives or who absent ourselves for only brief and inconsiderable periods of time never know how extraordinary is the environment in which we have been placed. It is only the stranger with an artistic sense or the native who has been long away who gets the full effect of this city of ours in its unique prismatic horidity of hue such as vivifies no other city of its kind.

If you will think for a moment and visualize from memory the great cities of Europe as a colorist would see them you will be struck by the fact that each one is a monotone. London has the dull, dingy, smoky hue of its own November fogs, and as you pass along its miles and miles of streets, a welter of unvariegated facades and homely chimney pots, your impression will be more and more that London is one great smudge, hideous and unrelieved beneath a sky of watery paleness which merely accentuates a little more the dingy hue of everything beneath it. Paris equally represents a monotone, a delicate gray that is neat and clean and that adds to the symmetry and harmoniousness of the whole effect, but that is seldom diversified by warmer tones. Berlin is a monotone in buff, and Rome, like Paris, for the most part, a monotone in gray.

One thinks at first of Naples as a city brilliant with the hues of the south, but a little reflection will show that it is not the city itself which can be rightly so regarded, but rather the setting of the city as one perceives it from the ship on which he enters the glorious bay or from the Capo di Posilipo. The intense blue of the sky, the emerald of the surrounding hills, the sparkle on the waters that lap its crescent shore, the huge dun slope of Vesuvius, with its golden smoke, and Capri in the distance swimming in a golden mist—these things afford an unforgettable dream of perfect coloring. But Naples itself! The place is as commonplace and dirty and depressing as Constantinople, which also from a distance cheats you into thinking it a colorist's paradise.

It is New York alone which, after delighting the eye with the beauty of its harbor, embraced by the long slopes of billowy green, fascinates the eye by the brilliancy and diversity of its color scheme. The sky is as blue as that which is arched above the Mediterranean. Its sunshine is as bright, and it is sifted down upon the city like gold dust scattered by a lavish hand. But the sky and the sunlight merely intensify the vividness of the color contrasts which are visible at every turn. Here is no convention, no conformity, no desire for harmonious effect. The snowy whiteness of marble and the clean gray of granite are everywhere intermingled with the cheerful buff or the warm, rich reds of brick. Patches of green appear at the end of every vista.

The enormous display windows of the shops are a riot of blues and yellows and pale rose and heliotrope and scarlet. Gilding catches and reflects the sunlight at every turn. Flags and streamers and multicolored awnings add to the effect, so that every street is a veritable spectrum. Throughout the whole length and breadth of the island city color abounds in flecks and splashes. It is just a bit barbaric, possibly, but it is also wonderful and striking.

To the sober dullness of Madrid or Rome or London it is what the Pompeiian wall paintings are to the quiet canvases of Harpignies—not art, but instinct nevertheless with a sensuousness and a glow that stir one strangely. If you are a native of New York perhaps you never noticed this. Yet all the same it is set before you every day, and if you will only think of it the next time you go out of doors you will perceive it as a revelation and will know that whatever else New York may be it is, at any rate, a color city, and as such it is one that has no rival.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Sarcastic.

A young author, evidently desirous of benefiting by the experience of an older brother craftsman, once asked Richard Henry Stoddard how he had acquired such a mastery of Anglo-Saxon.

"I don't know how I ever did it," replied the poet, who, after a moment's reflection, added: "I think, however, I must attribute it to the fact that I never had any education."

Securing a New Scholar.

Mr. Tucker—What is it, Tommy? Toothache? Well, we'll go to the dentist tomorrow. Even at your age a boy ought to begin to save his teeth.

Tommy—Gee, if I save up enough do I get something for 'em, pa?—Chicago Tribune.

BOER AMUSEMENTS.

Among Them Are Pole Climbing, An Exercising and Spade Racing.

The Boer is a lad believer in the advantage of exercise, though his ways are not ours. One favorite form is pole climbing. This consists of having one arm tied behind the back and swarming to the top of the pole with the aid of the legs and the free arm. It sounds simple, but it is not half so simple as it seems.

Another exercise is throwing the hatchet, or ax, to be more correct. An ordinary wood chopping ax is used for this. This is swung round the head until it reaches a sufficient momentum, when it is released. The man who throws the farthest does not of necessity win, as it is necessary that the blade should bury itself in the earth on reaching its destination. It requires a considerable amount of skill to accomplish this.

Another kind of amusement is spade racing. The men stand with one foot on either side of an ordinary spade, grasping the top of the handle between the hands. At the signal they start forward by a series of jumps. If a man's foot leaves its proper place he is disqualified. There is no more severe strain on the muscles of the leg than this. The distance for such a race as this is generally twenty paces.

The Boer is gifted with wonderful endurance. At long distances he could hold his own with any, but he would not stand any chance with our men at sprint racing, as he lacks the necessary speed.

The Sacred Scarab.

The sacred scarabæus was for many centuries venerated by ancient Egyptians, a cult shared recently by Hottentots and akin to that of the holy cricket of Madagascar.

In explanation of this Thespesion said, "The Egyptians do not venture to give form to their gods; they use symbols of occult meaning." A black and a golden green beetle were both regarded as emblems of Ra, the sun god; of Ptah, the creative power, and of rebirth, resurrection and immortality.

Every beetle was held to be male and self produced. Its thirty toes symbolized the days of a month, and the pellet of dung in which it rolled along its eggs was a type of the movements of the sun.

In ancient Egyptian philosophy the sacred scarab is spoken of as the first living creature that sprang from the mud of the subsiding Nile. It was closely connected with astronomy and used as an amulet of sovereign virtue for the living and the dead.

Origin of "Grass" Widow.

"Why should a woman separated from her husband be called a 'grass' widow?" asked a young man of the antiquary. "The term 'grass' widow," the latter answered, "has nothing to do with the herbage on our lawns. 'Grass' is a misspelling, sanctioned by custom, of 'grace.' In the past, when divorces were rare, a woman separated legally from her husband was called a 'viduca de gratia' by the Roman church, and the French called her a 'veuve de grace.' The meaning of both terms is the same—'widow by grace.' We took the 'veuve' from the French and translated it properly into 'widow,' but the 'grace' we incorporated into our language, misspelling it in the process. You would be technically correct in writing 'grace' instead of 'grass' widow, but it is probable that no one would understand what you meant."—Philadelphia Record.

Schoolboy Blunders.

A. H. B. of Ascot sent to the London Globe some specimens of "howlers" perpetrated by board school children and collected by a board school master. On the nature of gases, "An oxygen has eight sides." In natural history, "A cuckoo is a bird which does not lay its own eggs." "A mosquito is a child of black and white parents" and "A blizzard is the inside of a fowl." In geographical study we get the following: "The equator is a menagerie lion running round the earth and through Africa." "A meridian is the place where they keep the time" and "The inhabitants of Paris are called Parisites." Among answers we have heard before is that of the child who declares, "Isaak Walton was such a good fisherman that he was called the judicious hooker."

The Japanese Way.

The question of choice between two vases was decided by a patron in a Japanese shop when the proprietor said: "That smaller vase, madam, is thoroughly Japanese in form and decoration. That floral pattern in gold around the upper half is characteristic, and so, too, is the exceedingly narrow and short neck. The vase will hold but a single blossom that should be long stemmed and stand upright. Thus the flower will be individualized and the vase likewise. That is the Japanese way."

Doubtful Social.

Grace—Just see how much your little wife loves you. She made this cake for you all by herself.

Arthur—Yes, my darling. And now if you will eat it all by yourself I shall possess indisputable proof of your devotion.—Pittsburg Press.

She Bet It.

He—If I should kiss you what would you do?

She—I never bet on an emergency until it arises.

"But if it should arise?"

"I'd bet it rose to five."—Yale Record.

NAPOLEON'S FOLLIES.

Was Always Often With the Exception of Russia.

Of all Napoleon's insanities, for they were nothing less, the climax was the invasion of Russia. What motive can he have had for this, saving delirious ambition, and, what was also undoubtedly strong in him, sheer love of the bloody game of war? He evidently reckoned on encountering the Russian army of defense nearer the frontier, winning an Austerlitz or a Jena, dictating terms as he had dictated them to Austria or Prussia, and returning to Paris in triumph. He was deceived in the character of his enemy. He tried in vain to force a battle at Smolensko. The Russians instead of fighting him near the frontier retreated before him, gave up their country to his ravages, compelled him to make a march in which he lost a great part of his enormous host and after handling him very severely at Borodino evacuated Moscow, leaving it in flames. They then refused to treat with him. He had consequently to decamp without having provided for retreat or subsistence. He lost almost his entire army in the wintry wastes and but for the extraordinary conduct of Kutusoff in letting him and his guard pass unopposed would himself have fallen into the hands of the enemy. This error was on a far more imposing scale and more tragical than any blunder of Beaulieu or Mack. But was it less of a blunder or less of a detraction from the reputation of the man of action or even from that of the commander? It is frightful to think what power a despot has for evil. There was probably not a soul on either side, saving Napoleon himself, who desired the Russian expedition.—Goldwin Smith in Atlantic.

NO FIRE INFORMATION.

The telephone operators in the exchange have been instructed not to tell subscribers where fire alarms are turned in from. For a long time it has been customary for the exchange to answer many such inquiries. "Where is the fire?" has come in by the scores after each alarm. The management gave orders that these inquiries should not be answered; so far, however, it has not lessened the number of those who have called up to ask and it takes longer to explain why the question cannot be answered than to answer. The new regulation applies to the newspaper offices and judging from some recent experiences has been applied impartially to the fire department also.—Springfield News.

IN JAIL FOR PERJURY

O. W. Wallace Accused of Attempting to Defraud Creditors.

Springfield, July 16.—Indicted by the federal grand jury of the June term of court for making false oaths and affidavit under the bankruptcy act, Otto W. Wallace, alias W. W. Wallace, was arrested in Mount Vernon and brought to this city and lodged in the Sangamon county jail awaiting the arrival of bondsmen.

The charges against Wallace are very sensational. Wallace, it is alleged, was engaged in general mercantile business at Mount Sterling, Brown county, as Otto W. Wallace, and under that name he failed and filed a petition in bankruptcy a few years ago in the office of the clerk of the United States court of this city. He did not complete the proceedings and was not adjudged bankrupt. Later he engaged in business at Mount Vernon, Jefferson county, as W. W. Wallace, and purchased goods to the amount of $12,000. He at this time declared that he was not Otto W. Wallace and that he did not know such a person. It is alleged he shipped the goods from Mount Vernon to Washington, Mo., where he put them in the hands of other parties and notified his creditors that he had sold the stock for $8,000 and would settle with them. This was last fall. Later he claimed that he was walking along the viaduct in East St. Louis early one morning and was assaulted and robbed of the $8,000 which he had received for his stock. This story aroused the suspicion of the creditors and he was arrested on a train in Missouri as he was attempting to get away. He was brought back to Mount Vernon and his creditors forced him into bankruptcy. They obtained possession of the stock of goods at Washington, Mo., and sold it for 35 cents on the dollar.

When Wallace filed his statement of assets and liabilities during these last proceedings he did so as W. W. Wallace and under that name he testified before the referee in bankruptcy which resulted in his indictment.

GOOD ILLINOIS WHEAT.

Prominent Miller Says Crop Makes More Flour Than Ever.

"The Illinois millers are going to be strictly in it this year," said President J. W. Goft, of the Globe mills, to a Peoria Journal man.

Continuing he said: "They have got the wheat right here in Illinois that will make the finest flour that was ever turned out. I never in my life saw such fine winter wheat as is being sampled already. I have examined a number of samples and they all run the same. It is the finest wheat I have ever seen. I think the speculators are foolish and that they will find it out one of these days. Wheat should be measured by the number of loaves of bread it will make, and not by the number of bushels to the acre."

Samples of winter wheat are being received on change and all of it so far is from the central part of the state. P. B. & C. C. Miles have samples from Logan county, and Buckley, Pursley & Co., have samples from McDonough county, in the vicinity of Rushville and Vermont, and all of its is of excellent quality. Samples received this morning by P. & C. C. Miles were weighed and showed 62 and 63 pounds to the bushel. Mr. Gift was greatly interested in the samples and made a critical examination of them and declared that in all his experience in the milling business he had never seen finer winter wheat. He said it contained more gluten and was better in every respect and would make great flour.

VERY REMARKABLE CURE OF DIARRHOEA.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Bosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by all druggists.

Bell and Illinois 'Phones: Nos. 64.

The new army rifle will pierce six human bodies or a foot and a half of pine at 6,000 feet. The use of such a cartridge in riots would endanger the lives of every person within a mile and a half. For that reason the "riot charge" has been provided. It contains thirty-four grains of powder and two round balls weighing forty-two grains. Its fire is not effective at over 600 feet.

The Bible publications of the Oxford University Press have been issued for 300 years and can be published in 150 languages and dialects. Every year fully 600 tons of paper are used for this purpose alone. Orders for 100,000 Bibles are quite common and the supply of printed sheets is so great that an order for 500,000 copies can be readily filled. On an average from thirty to forty Bibles are furnished every minute.

The forests of Florida are one of the state's greatest sources of revenue, a revenue that is being consumed with great rapidity. Speculators from regions farther north have lately been buying and cutting large areas of forests in Florida, and the timber supply is greatly diminished. The wooded area of the state is estimated at 37,700 square miles, or 70 per cent of the total area, much of which is occupied by merchantable timber.

When Uncle Sam started in the real estate business in the sixties he had an estate of nearly 2,000,000,000 acres. There is now left only about 500,000,000 acres and much of this is comparatively little value, the best lands having been first taken. In the six years ending next July there will have been taken from the government—that is from the people who own this land—about 100,000,000 acres. This has been done under present laws and alleged legal forms. Agitation began in 1900 for restriction of land privileges and then the raid of the land sharks began in dead earnest. In 1898 only 8,000,000 acres were taken, but in 1900 nearly 14,000,000 acres, and in 1902 20,000,000 acres were taken from the public domain and the present year promises to break the record by 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 acres. These gigantic steals, for in many cases they are nothing else, have alarmed some of the officers charged with the administration of the laws as they exist, and have aroused many people who have regarded the remaining public lands as of great economic value to have in reserve in times of social or industrial stress.

Taking the Cake.

Concerning the expression "Take the cake," the following from Bartlett and Coyne's "Scenery and Antiquities of Ireland," describing a dance in front of a shebeen, is an interesting illustration: "A churn dish stuck into the earth supported on its flat end a cake, which was to become the prize of the best dancer. The contention was carried on for a long time with extraordinary spirit. At length the competitors yielded their claims to a young man, the son of a rich farmer in the neighborhood, who, taking the cake, placed it gallantly in the lap of a pretty girl to whom he was about to be married."

The Vendetta.

The cross is a threat of death, and the Corsican who finds it drawn upon his door knows that he must look for no quarter. The vendetta neither sleeps nor knows where it may stop. It is not confined to two persons. The quarrels of individuals are taken up by whole families. Not even collateral branches are exempt, and women must take their chances with the men.

Defining a "Crab."

The old story of the Frenchmen who were making a dictionary and defined crab as "a small red fish that walks backward" illustrates the need of exact knowledge. Cuvier said the definition was excellent, only that the crab was not a fish, was not red and did not walk backward.

The Mind.

Unreflective minds possess thoughts only as a jug does water, by containing them. In a disciplined mind knowledge exists like vital force in the physical frame, ready to be directed to tongue, or hand, or foot, hither, thither, anywhere, and for any use desired.

Both to Blame.

EARLY MORNING AIR.

Most people sleep with their windows closed at night, so that they get only the air that has been breathed over and over again in the room. Most people do not sleep close to their lives [illegible] sleep close enough to experience the freshening effect given by filling the lungs while dew is still on the grass. So far as analysis goes the composition of early morning air is not different from that of air at any other time. It is well to remember, however, that during the passing of night to day and of day to night several physical changes take place.

There is a fall of temperature at sunset and a rise again at dawn, and consequently moisture is alternately being thrown out and taken up again, and it is well known that change of state is accompanied by electrical phenomena and certain chemical manifestations also. The formation of dew has probably therefore far more profound effects than merely the moistening of objects with water.

Dew is vitalizing not entirely because it is water, but because it possesses an invigorating action due partly, at any rate, to the fact that it is saturated with oxygen, and it has been stated that during its formation peroxide of hydrogen and some ozone are developed. It is not improbable that the peculiarly attractive and refreshing quality which marks the early morning air has its origin in this way.

Certain it is that the bracing property of the early morning air wears off as the day advances, and it is easy to conceive that this loss of freshness is due to the oxygen, ozone or peroxide of hydrogen, whichever it may be, being used up.

The difficulty of inducing grass to flourish under a tree in full leaf is well known and is generally explained by saying that the tree absorbs the nourishing constituents of the soil or that it keeps the sunlight away from the grass and protects it from rain. It is doubtful whether any of these explanations is true, the real reason most probably being that the vitalizing dew cannot form upon the grass under a tree, whereas, as a rule, both rain and light can reach it.

Dew is probably essential to the well being of both plants and animals to a greater extent than is known.—New York American.

A Modern Cannery.

A modern cannery is a marvel of mechanical ingenuity. After the fish is cleaned automatic machines do nearly all the remainder of the work, even in some instances filling the cans with a motion for all the world like that of two human hands, one holding the can, the other crowding it full of raw fish. I shall not attempt to enter into a description of the machinery. The can of fish is started rolling on its way, and one has the impression that it continues to roll through machine after machine, hardly touched by human hands. It rolls into the cooker and out again, even rolls itself into a bright colored label, and finally somehow rolls into a packing box, ready to be loaded in the car waiting at the door.—Ray Stannard Baker in Century.

Fashionable Chairs, Perhaps.

Squire Hanson's language seldom lacked vigor, but was often wanting in strict accuracy and sometimes in consistency.

"I've been over to talk with Alvira Pond about selling that corner lot," he said one day to his wife, his ruddy face mottled with purple from some recent exertion, "and I'll never enter her parlor again, never! Not a chair in the room but what is impossible to sit down in, out of the question to get up from and leaves you with such a cramp you can't move hand nor foot when you stand!"—Youth's Companion.

EAD OAKS AT CHAPIN

Mrs. John Morris Dies From Injuries Inflicted by Her Own Hand.

Coroner Reynolds was called to Chapin Thursday on account of the death of Mrs. John A. Morris, who died at 3 o'clock Thursday morning. There were circumstances surrounding her death which made it advisable to send for the coroner and he went to Chapin on the early train and impanelled a jury consisting of the following persons: F. M. Palmer, foreman; A. Tucker, W. A. McPherson, Austin Moody, Arthur Brown and F. P. McKinney, clerk.

The jury examined the following witnesses: Dr. J. H. Fountain, who was the physician called in the case, and Dr. Lucien Smith, who was called in consultation; John A. Morris, the husband, and Mrs. Belle Osborne, of Winchester.

From their testimony it was learned that the deceased had been taken sick July 1. On July 3 she had a severe chill and since that time had been in a serious condition. The testimony further showed that on or about the first mentioned date deceased had attempted an abortion on herself by an instrument in her own hand furnished her by a friend, Belle Osborne, of Winchester, and that subsequent thereto her serious condition ensued. Mrs. Belle Osborne in her testimony acknowledged sending the decedent the instrument and the husband of decedent stated that he had tried to prevent his wife from using the same.

The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the above facts and was that the deceased had come to her death from "septic peritonitis resulting from an effort to produce an abortion with an instrument used by her own hand."

The deceased was about 29 years of age and was the mother of two children, both of whom are living. The family had only resided in Chapin a short time, having moved there from Exeter.

The funeral will be held at Exeter at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THE COLONIAL INN

Ground Broken Thursday for New Edifice—Will be Finished Oct. 15.

Ground was broken Thursday morning by Wm. Nunes for the Colonial Inn on West State street and the work will be pushed forward energetically. N. A. Buckingham is the contractor and C. W. Buckingham the architect. The contract provides that the structure shall be completed by Oct. 15.

The Colonial Inn will be of the style of architecture indicated by the name. The main part of the building will be 46 by 58 feet in dimensions. A palladian porch, with massive pillars rising from the ground to the roof, will surround the main entrance. The effect of the whole will be to remind one of a spacious southern home. Crossing the porch and entering the visitor will find himself within a broad hallway. At the east side will be the dining room, 32 by 19 feet in dimensions. Back of it will be the kitchen and storeroom. The west side of this floor will be divided into four rooms, the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. J. Thompson Sharpe, owners of the Inn. At either side of the hall a broad stairway will lead to the second floor. This is to be divided into six suites of two rooms each. On the third floor there will be two suites of two rooms and one of three rooms. Wood work will be of hard pine, the walls will be done in sand finish and all paint will be enamel. The plumbing will be modern and heat and light fixtures will be of the most satisfactory kind. More accurate description of the Inn will be given when it nears completion, but suffice it to say that it will be an ornament to the street and a valued addition to the attractions of Jacksonville.

Doing and Not Doing.

"Sir," said a lad, coming down to one of the wharfs in Boston and addressing a well known merchant, "have you any berth on your ship? I want to learn something."

"What can you do?" asked the gentleman.

"I can try my best to do whatever I am put to," answered the boy. "I have sawed and split mother's wood for nigh on two years."

"What have you not done?" asked the gentleman, who was a sort of questioner.

"Well, sir," said the boy after a moment's pause, "I have not whispered in school for a whole year."

"That's enough," said the gentleman. "You may ship aboard this vessel, and I hope to see you the master of her some day. A boy who can master a wood pile and bridle his tongue must be made of good stuff."

Do It Yourself.

Why do you ask the teacher or some classmate to solve that hard problem? Do it yourself. You might as well let some one else eat your dinner as to "do your sums" for you, says the Northwestern Christian Advocate.

Do not ask the teacher to parse all the difficult words or to assist you in the performance of any of your duties. Do it yourself. Do not ask for even a hint from anybody. Try again.

Every trial increases your ability, and you will finally succeed by dint of the very wisdom and strength gained in this effort, even if at first the problem is far beyond your skill. It is the study, not the answer, that really rewards your pains.

Why Her Dancing Dragged.

An athletic young man, with a fine, strong physique, danced with a young woman of some 200 pounds in a village not far west of Rahway, N. J. He noticed that the dancing was uphill work, and when it was over sank into a chair in the incipient stages of exhaustion. The young woman looked thoughtfully across the shining surface of the floor and threw a glance of investigation at the corner where the punch bowl stood.

"Doesn't it strike you that the floor is very sticky tonight?" she inquired.

The young man gallantly denied thinking so.

"It seems so to me," the young woman observed. Then she looked down at her feet, protruding from a silken distance, and exclaimed:

"Why, I've got my rubbers on!"—New York Post.

CHURCHMEN ON THE DIAMOND

Christians Won Ball Game From Baptists—Score 20 to 16.

It was a comedy of errors and then some.

The deciples of Roger Williams and the followers of Alexander Campbell cavorted around the diamond at West Side park Thursday afternoon in an attempt to give an exhibition of the national game. They succeeded admirably in the attempt, but neither side were guilty of committing the act. It was one day when the Baptists were not Christians and when the swats of the latter prevailed over against the swats of the former.

The uniforms were striking. There were eighteen players and there were just eighteen different styles of uniform displayed. Some wore long trousers and some wore short. Some wore sponges under their caps, others preferred cabbage leaves.

John G. Reynolds was present in the double capacity of umpire and coroner, his decisions were unquestionably accepted and his services in the latter capacity fortunately were not needed.

Both teams took a short time for warming up and at 4:30 o'clock Umpire Reynolds called play ball. The Christians won the toss and took to the field and the game started with Rev. R. F. Thrapp in the box and Johnson, of the opposing team, the first man up. He failed to make good and went out on strikes. Rev. T. H. Marsh followed and made good with a hit, but was caught trying to purloin second. Coughlin also connected with the slow ball of Brother Thrapp, but died on third, when Thomas went out on a fly to Clement, which retired the side.

Rev. T. H. Marsh occupied the pitcher's box for the Baptists and the swift inshoots he served up to the opposing batsmen were in sharp contrast to the slow ball of his opponent, which was merely lobbed over the plate, but as is usually the case proved equally effective, as subsequent innings demonstrated, against players who are accustomed to face a swift delivery. Only one hit was made during the Christians half of the first and four men were struck out, yet three runners crossed the plate before the inning closed. In the first half of the second only four men faced the pitcher and one run was made on a base on balls, a sacrifice hit by Beadle and two stolen bases. A total of only six errors had been made during the inning and a half that had been played, and it began to look as though the game might be finished before darkness set in, but in the last half of the second from appearances the game had changed to rounders, at any rate the Campbellites struck around and seven men over.

The Baptists were seized with a strange desire in this inning to throw the ball and direction seemed to be a secondary consideration. It started with a wild throw on the part of Pitcher Marsh to first base and it is presumed that the members of his flock, who are ever loyal to their shepherd, forgot themselves for the moment and religiously followed his lead, at any rate wild throws were as numerous as opportunity offered. There is an end to everything, however, and after ten men had tallied it was again the turn of the Baptists forces to face the pitcher. They were a stout-hearted lot and had sufficient vigor left after chasing lost balls and running down wild throws to bat in five runs on a total of six hits, which showed that they knew how to wield the willow.

Three runs were the best the Campbellites could do in their half and in the next two innings they drew blanks and in each only three men faced the pitcher.

The Baptists, however, since the third inning had been on the edge of the promised land and this time they entered in and the game assumed interesting proportions. In the meantime Pitcher Thrapp had given way to Carl Richards, who pitched two innings and then Runkle essayed to pitch. His handling of the ball was too much like the manner of handling freight to be successful and the Baptists landed on him for five hits, this in connection with four passes to first, numerous errors and a bad case of rattles on the part of his teammates allowed his opponets to tally eight runs and tie the score. It was an exciting moment. Heretofore Frank Huffaker, who presided over first base, had done all the talking for his own team and tried to do the same for his opponents, but at this stage of the proceedings he became suddenly as silent as a run down clock.

Two such innings was more than Umpire Reynolds could stand and he retired in favor of Lloyd Dewees, who finished the game.

Vasconcellos had replaced Pitcher Marsh at the end of the fourth and kept his curves well distributed until the last half of the sixth, when his opponents solved his delivery to the extent of four runs, which proved enough to win the game, as the contest ended with the seventh inning and the Baptists went out in one, two, three order in their half.

There was only a fair crowd in attendance and the game was certainly worth the price of admission. The game was not featureless, yet it would be difficult to pick out the features. It was an aggregation of stars in both cases and so far as is known their equals are not in existence. They will all doubtless be somewhat slower in their movements during the next few days, but after that will be none the worse for the sportive life of Thursday. The score in detail:

COUNCIL HELD REGULAR SESSION LAST NIGHT.

Ordinances for Railroad Subways on Routt and Johnson Streets Given First Reading —Several Appointments.

A regular meeting of the city council was held Thursday night. Mayor Davis presided and the following aldermen were present: Aldermen Cobb, Higgins, Moore, Ticknor, McGinnis, Kennedy, Babb, Johnson and Goveia. An ordinance for a subway at the Alton crossing on Routt street was introduced and another for a subway at the C., B. & Q. crossing on Johnson street. The question of a sub-fire station in the Third ward was referred to the fire committee. An ordinance requiring sidewalks in front of certain properties on the square and West Court street was passed. A new ordinance relative to the control of houses of prostitution was passed. Dr. Edward Bowe was appointed a member of the library board; C. W. Brown, superintendent of public works; Wm. Woods engineer at the light plant; A. C. Obermeyer, assistant engineer. The contract for coal for the water works was awarded to J. M. Mitchell and for the light plant to J. W. York.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

A petition from James Young for permission to lay a walk in front of his residence on Pine street was granted.

A letter was read from Austin Carter inviting the council to attend the district lodge G. U. O. O. F., Wednesday, Aug. 4, at the court house. Accepted, the council to meet at the city hall at 3 p. m., Aug. 4.

Ald. Ticknor, for the highway committee, reported favorably on Johnson street subway at C., B. & Q. crossing and subway at Alton crossing on Routt street. The report was accepted.

Ald. Goveia, for the water committee, asked and was granted more time with reference to the Daub proposition.

Ald. Cobb spoke of the ordinance he had introduced at the last meeting, providing for a fire station in the Third ward. He said that Ald. Ticknor had suggested that the old fire station property on West Morgan street be sold and the proceeds used for establishing a fire station in the Third ward. On motion of Alds. Ticknor and Cobb the matter was referred to the fire committee.

The clerk read an ordinance providing for sidewalks in front of certain properties on the square and on West Court street.

Ald. Kennedy asked if persons who wished to could lay walks without going into court and was informed that they could.

The ordinance was adopted.

On motion of Ald. Moore it was understood that all persons named who complied with the ordinance within 30 days be exempted from court costs.

An ordinance concerning houses of prostitution was read, the purpose being to control cases known as "single roomers."

Ald. Kennedy thought the old ordinance covered the case and that the new one would simply cause expense of publication.

The mayor said the ordinance had been asked for by the police and city attorney and he thought it should be passed.

Ald. Moore moved that the ordinance be adopted and his motion was seconded by Ald. McGinnis.

Ald. Goveia, with a second by Ald. Kennedy, made a motion that the ordinance lay over until next meeting. This motion was lost, Alds. Goveia, Higgins and Kennedy voting yes.

The ordinance was then passed, Alds. Goveia and Kennedy voting no.

Mayor Davis nominated Dr. Edward Bowe member of the library board in place of W. E. Killen, resigned. Confirmed.

Mayor Davis named C. W. Brown, superintendent of light plant; William Woods, engineer at light plant; A. C. Obermeyer, assistant engineer at light plant. Confirmed.

Bids for coal were opened and were as follows: Water works and city building—F. J. McGhee, lump, $2.55½; mine run, $2.36½. R. A. Gates & Son, lump, $2.72; mine run, $2.45. John Lonergan, lump, $2.73; mine run, $2.48. J. M. Mitchell, lump, $2.54; mine run, $2.34. Walton & Co., lump, $2.64; mine run, $2.43. Light plant—F. J. McGhee, mine run, $2.36½; nut, $2.37½. R. A. Gates & Son, mine run, $2.44; nut, $2.72. J. W. York, nut, $2.23. Harrigan Bros., mine run, $2.40; nut, $2.35. There was some discussion as to the relative merits of mine run and lump and the contract for the water works was awarded to J. M. Mitchell on mine run. The light plant contract was awarded to J. W. York.

Bids were opened for boilers for the light plant as follows: G. E. Mathews & Co., $990; Boylan, Landers & Co., $1,000. The bids were referred to the light committee to investigate.

The clerk read an ordinance providing for a subway at the Alton crossing on Routt street. There was an emergency clause attached.

Ald. Moore made a motion that the ordinance lay over under the rules and it was so ordered.

An ordinance for a subway at the C., B. & Q. crossing on Johnson street was read and laid over under the rules.

The bond of Joseph Preston, patrolman, was approved, Andrew Russel and J. M. Mitchell, sureties.

John Cherry, Jr., was present and asked the council for a year's extension on his heating plant franchise. A motion to that effect was passed, although Mayor Davis thought a resolution necessary. Mr. Cherry stated that the price of iron pipe was too high to permit the construction of the plant just at present.

MORE CARNIVAL TALK

Merchants Will be Asked Their Wishes in the Project.

A meeting of Elks and others interested in the street carnival project was held last night. The matter was discussed at length and it was decided to have a corn carnival this fall, provided the proper support is given. In other words the carnival is a go if the merchants and business men want it and are ready to support it financially. A committee will commence interviewing merchants to day and the final decision in the matter will soon be known.

EPWORTH LEAGUE SOCIAL.

The Epworth league of the Brooklyn church gave a lawn social at the beautiful residence of Dr. Griswold Thursday evening. Cake and ice cream were served. The large number present thoroughly enjoyed themselves and quite a sum was secured for the church. The young ladies of the league ably waited on the tables. A graphophone supplied an interesting program.

GAVE LAWN SOCIAL.

A lawn social was given Thursday on the Routt club grounds by the Ladies' Aid society of the Catholic church. The lawn was nicely decorated and especially well lighted. A large crowd was present and the financial proceeds were very satisfactory. Ice cream, cake and lemonade were served. C. A. Shepard's graphophone supplied entertainment for the evening.

No Smoke!

It is a Fuel Saver that has stood the test of many hard winters.

IN the smallest furnace, the air, introduced and heated for the purpose of promoting combustion, travels nearly twenty teet in a channel encircling the hot fire bowl lining before being discharged upon the burning fuel. We do burn the bulk of the soot and carbonaceous gases, even when the commonest coal is used. It does this by means of more effectual combustion of the fuel in the fire bowl. It extracts a greater amount of heat from a given amount of fuel, and burning the fuel more thorough and reduces the wasting of fuel through the smoke outlet,

PICTURES IN THE EYE.

[illegible] what is meant by [illegible] the retina of the eye. [illegible] "the mind's eye," as Hamlet [illegible] the power of seeing them is not shattered as are mine. Even those who have seen them from time to time, and probably given them little heed, may not feel altogether sure about the matter without a word of explanation.

Lying in bed, after a tiring or exciting day, with your eyes closed and about to fall asleep, have you never seen, apparently in the eyeball, spots and streaks of colored light, changing their forms and shifting their places? Have you never watched them passing into complicated patterns, like those of the kaleidoscope, or into pretty landscapes quite unknown to you, or into strange faces, now and again very beautiful or angelic, but often as ugly and hideous as goblins from the infernal regions, or, haply, into scenes of action reminding you of the drama, but such as you never saw in real life or upon any stage? These pictures are more alive than the "living pictures" of the music halls. They have the hues of life and art and rival the quick change artist in their protean transformations. The animatograph that can imitate their ceaseless evolution without a hitch or tremor will be a novelty and make the fortune of its inventor.

What are they? It is one of the mysteries of that marvelous—nay, miraculous—organ, the brain. We must distinguish them from other mysteries of the "border land" which lies between the adjoining states of wideawake and sound asleep.

They are not the images of a reverie or day dream. Whether we recall the past in our waking hours or invent new incidents like a novelist, we can govern them to some extent and are quite aware of their fanciful or mental character. They are not a hallucination in the proper sense of the term. We feel they are subjective, or within us; we suppose them in the eye itself, whereas we believe a hallucination is objective, or without us. An apparition or specter that we take for a reality is a hallucination. The ghost of Hamlet's father, witnessed by several persons, and the spook of his distant brother, seen by Lord Brougham, were probably hallucinations of a "telepathic" order. The picture of Millais where a man starts up and sees a luminous lady at the foot of his bed is a case of hallucination. The "dream image" of the undergraduate who dreamed that he was chased by a green figure and, awakening, saw it in his room was also a hallucination.

Pictures in the eye are more akin to what are called "after images." A gentleman (a doctor, if we are not mistaken), after a fatiguing day, was cheered by the sight of a beefsteak for his dinner, as he very well might, but seemingly the steak made a deep impression on his mind or his digestion, for while he was drowsing with his eyes closed after eating it, he saw it again as vividly as before, and on dropping asleep he saw it a third time in his dream. It was doubtless a substantial steak, not a ghost, and yet it haunted him.

There is, of course, more than one theory of these living pictures in the eye or, as they are called in science, "hypnogogic images." One is that they are formed on the retina of the eye and confined to it. Another is that they are purely mental and formed in the cortex or bark, so to speak, of the cerebrum. As often happens, the truth appears to lie in a combination of both views. Recent observations of M. Yves Delage have put the question to experimental proof. When we look at a bright body—for example, the sun—and shut our eyes we see a colored spot of light, and if we move the eye up or down, to right or left, the spot moves with it. The spot, in fact, is left by the image of the sun upon the retina and therefore moves with it. Now, if the hypnogogic images are on the retina they will also move with the eye, and this is what M. Delage has found. Nevertheless the brain also comes into play in forming them.

Corry O'Lanus.

Joseph O'Brien is an Irishman who has traveled all over the world, served in the royal navy and knows everybody. You can never mention a man or a fact or anything else but Joe knows it.

One evening I was sitting in a "decent public", with some friends discussing the recent events.

I closed my remarks with a quotation from "Coriolanus," and just then Joe walked in and happened to hear it.

"Who said that?" said Joe.

"Oh, Coriolanus. Of course you know him."

"No, I never knew him, but I know his people. A fine old Hibernian family, the O'Lanuses. I knew all his brothers, but I never knew Corry."—Philadelphia Ledger.

LITTLE BARBADOS

Some Curiosities About the Freedom People on Earth.

None of the great colonies of the earth is half so proud of itself as the little colony of Barbados, a mere speck in the Caribbean, which calls itself "the little England of the tropics."

Alone of all England's West Indian isles Barbados has belonged to England ever since it was first colonized by white men. It has never been conquered by the enemy, as the others have been. This fact naturally gives the Barbadians a good conceit of themselves and indeed makes them just about the proudest people on earth.

When just before the Crimean war England was hesitating whether she should attack Russia the Barbadians sent this message to the cabinet:

"Go ahead. Don't be afraid. Barbados is behind you."

King George was offered an asylum by "little England" when Napoleon Bonaparte proposed to invade England.

"If you were driven from England," the Barbadians wrote, "come here. You will be safe with us to protect you."

When England was suffering her worst reverses in South Africa the Barbadians were not worried. They knew that if matters really reached a crisis "Barbados would go in and finish the business," as one of their newspapers seriously put it.

Walking Leaves.

Nature's law being almost universal so far as the protection of the weak creatures is concerned, it is not at all wonderful perhaps that she has formed insects into perfect counterparts of flowers, leaves, sticks, etc. Some of the "walking leaves," those which are natives of India, China and Japan in particular, are large, grotesque looking creatures, their resemblance being strikingly like a bundle of yellow twigs joined together with faded, macerated leaves. The limbs of this species of insect are long, slender and very twiglike, the coloring being suited to that particular species of vegetation upon which the deceptive mimicker subsists.

The "walking stick," like the walking leaf, is also very deceptive as far as looks go. The limbs have small, slender bodies, the legs or arms starting from it just as smaller limbs of a tree or weed start from larger ones.

The "walking thorn" of Java belongs to this curious order of insects, as do also the "devil's horse" and the mantis. The "walking thorn" looks exactly like the large compound spine of our common honey locust tree, even in color and general contour.

How Eyes Are Tested.

The theory of the optically perfect eye is that parallel rays of light entering it are brought to a focus on its retina. Any deviation from this condition constitutes an error of refraction and requires for its correction an artificial variation of the luminous rays. The generally adopted method of determining the refraction of the eye is to use test types placed at such a distance that the rays of light emanating from them may be regarded in practice as parallel, and the deviation from parallelism necessary to correct a refractive error is effected by placing a lens in front of the eye. There are many other methods of changing the course of luminous rays coming from a test object, and of these the single convex lens is the simplest and most often used in optometry.

Crushing an Actor.

A brother actor famous for his pomposity and his inordinate ambition was regaling Sir Henry Irving with a forecast of his plans for the future.

"I shall begin the season," he announced, "with such and such a part, and after that I shall appear as Hamlet."

"Um!" drawled Irving. "As—eh—Hamlet, did you say?"

The other, incensed by the tone of the query, bridled up at once.

"Do you think, Sir Henry," he demanded indignantly, "that you are the only man who can play Hamlet?"

"Oh, no," rejoined Irving blandly, "but I am quite sure that you are the only man who can't."—Harper's Weekly.

The Clydesdale Horse.

The Clydesdale horse should walk at a swinging pace of not less than four miles an hour, and if he wants to trot he should move straight and close, with the points of the hocks turned inward rather than outward. He should not be wide between the thighs nor should his fore legs be planted on the outside of his shoulders, causing him to walk like a bulldog.

Some Kind of a Name.

The Duke of Argyll recently in speaking of the name of Scott said that it was one of the most common of all Scottish names.

"Why, your grace," said a friend, "you are one of the Campbells."

"Yes," replied the duke, "but Campbell is not a name; it is a description."

TO GATHER AT QUINCY

Civil War Veterans Will Assemble There October 14 and 15.

Arrangements are in progress for a big reunion of soldiers of the civil war at Quincy, to take place Oct. 14 and 15, and the full program will be announced shortly. The survivors of the 10th, 27th, 50th and 78th Illinois infantry, and the 3d Missouri cavalry are to hold their reunions there on those dates. The four first-named commands were recruited in this section of Illinois, as was also a considerable part of the Missouri regiment.

John Wessels, general secretary of the reunion, is busy notifying the various regimental associations of the coming event and it is expected that a large attendance will result.

A PERPETUAL ELECTRIC LIGHT.

A Chicago inventor, George Magrady, has discovered a process of manufacturing a 32-candle power light that will never go out. While experimenting with photographic chemicals four years ago Magrady's attention was attracted by a glow in a small globe. The glow was caused by a chemical which the inventor keeps secret. Magrady enlarged the glow and perfected the light by placing it in an air tight glass. He says there is no reason why the light will not remain brilliant forever if it is not broken. A company has been formed to manufacture the lights in numerous sizes. A patent hood fits over the globe and covers it completely when the light is not needed.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by all druggists.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR.

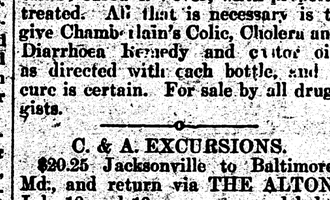

Hundreds of Jacksonville Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Jacksonville people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Jacksonville reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors cheerfully given by them will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:

Capt. F. C. Taylor, of 827 East State street, says he should be pleased with what brought about such coveted results. The captain says: "Those who have any trouble whatever from their kidneys and wish to suffer as they go through life should avoid taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They effected a cure in my case and I can cheerfully recommend them to my friends who have a similar ailment." The captain was like hundreds of citizens of Jacksonville. They were warned; they neglect the warning; complicated difficulties follow; they begin to realize their danger and anxiously look for some agent to relieve them. After trying a half dozen remedies and probably consulting a physician they find their physical condition far from being improved. In fact it is oftener the opposite. Now when an unfailing remedy like that which Captain Taylor tested and proved to be up to its representations is offered Jacksonville people would it not be the height of folly to ignore such valuable information?

Doan's Kidney Pills for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

IT PAYS TO BE STRONG.

There was a notable scene at Portsmouth, England, on Monday, July 6, as Inter Ocean. One of the finest war squadrons in the world was in the harbor under command of a British admiral. It was formed to honor an American squadron consisting of the Kearsarge, the Brooklyn, the Chicago, and the San Francisco.

The prince of Wales paid a formal visit to the Kearsarge, and in company with Field Marshal Roberts and admirals and vice-admirals inspected the vessel. The American bands played "God Save the King," and the British bands played "The Star Spangled Banner." All Englishmen within hearing and seeing paid honor to the Kearsarge and the nation the Kearsarge represented.

A man must be a poor American indeed, if the respect shown to the Kearsarge at Portsmouth does not call to his mind the picture of another Kearsarge in nearby waters more than a generation ago.

On Sunday, June 19, 1864, the American warship Kearsarge, under Capt. John A. Winslow, was lying in the English channel south of Portsmouth, and just north of Cherbourg, France. That Kearsarge had received no welcome from the English or French.

English yachts were in the offing, carrying distinguished persons, but none of them visited Captain Winslow. Fifteen thousand people were on the French shore, but not one of them had a cheer for the Kearsarge.

While Captain Winslow had been cruising up and down, night after night, day after day, keeping watch in front of Cherbourg, not an encouraging word had come to him from either shore. In the same days, however, there had been encouragement and good cheer and sympathy unbounded for the officers and men of the confederate cruiser Alabama in Cherbourg harbor.

The plaudits of the crowd on the hills of the French coast were not for the Kearsarge. The anxiety of those on the English yacht was not for the Kearsarge. And when at last the Alabama came dashing out of the harbor, as the Spanish cruiser came against Sampson's fleet at Santiago, there were no cheers for the American captain who put aside his prayer book for a trumpet and cleared for action.

As the two ships went round and round in the last great naval struggle of the civil war, there was no cheers for the Kearsarge, but, when the Alabama surrendered, her captain and a part of her crew were carried away perfidiously on an English yacht and the British government declined to consider either officers or men prisoners of war.

How different was it then from what it is now!

It pays to be strong.

CUBA SHOULD BORROW HERE.

Cuba proposes to float $35,000,000 worth of bonds and is undecided where to float them, says the Chicago Tribune. They should first of all be sold to such an extent as is possible among the Cuban people. What her citizens cannot take should be offered to the capitalists of this country. Should any of the Cuban bonds prove bad debts—which may heaven forfend—this country does not desire the spectacle of a foreign nation seizing or threatening to seize a custom house to collect for itself what is owing from Cuba. A foreign nation might do such a thing more successfully in Cuba than on the South American continent, for Cuba is an island and we should have to have a bigger navy than the disgruntled creditor, while at present certainly we haven't a bigger navy than some creditors we might imagine.

The need for floating these Cuban bonds in this country is thus evident. Our financiers, who are the most timid people on earth regarding war, might give just a little better terms than the market to the Cubans, and regard the favoritism as insurance against it.

FUTURE AMERICANS.

Prof. Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia university, takes a hopeful view of the future of the American people in the International Quarterly. Notwithstanding the tremendous immigration of diverse races, he thinks it is demonstrated by the census returns that the American type will remain essentially English.

At present there is a good deal of heterogeneity, which is unfavorable to liberty and democracy, and favorable to boss rule, to despotism and to imperialism. But all this will be overcome by the American spirit. "Composite as they are in blood, various as they are in mental qualities, interested as they are, as individuals, as local groups, and even as great geographical sections, in the most varied pursuits, beliefs and purposes, the American people, from whatsoever nationalities descended or whatsoever confession, are men and women who have been inspired by the greatest ideals that could create and mould a nation.

"Differing as they may in all other respects, they are alike in this, that they have been chosen, selected from the nations of the earth by their responsiveness, beyond the responsiveness of their kindred, to the ideals of freedom."

And it is this American spirit "that will overcome all elements of unrest, of ignorance and of corruption—the spirit which will enlighten and convert the most unpromising foreign-born citizen who now votes in ignorance but who will one day vote in wisdom."

WOMAN'S DUTIES.

A woman who keeps her house in order and has the care of a family has just as much responsibility as the man who provides the means to carry on the housekeeping. She is deserving of the more credit since the demands of her strength is greater. The everlasting sameness about her duties and the confinement necessary to carry them out is very trying to the nervous system, this produces a strain on the mind that makes her irritable, cross, and dissatisfied, which is just as much a disease as rheumatism or catarrh. If the nerves can be built up and made strong by medicine of some kind, this feeling is changed to one of cheerfulness and pleasure in her duties. The medicine that makes strong, steady nerves and prevents disease by building up the entire system, is Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic, a tablet to take at meal time. Cures nervous prostration by making rich red blood, feeding the nerves, and making solid flesh at the rate of 1 to 3 lbs. per week. This medicine is sold by druggists for 75 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $2.00, or sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of price. Write us about your case. Address, Dr. Gunn, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale by Lee P Allcott.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, July 16.—Wheat—Early sentiment was bearish due to unsatisfactory condition of the money market, weak feeling in stocks and labor troubles and prices responding to pressure from commission houses after steady opening with September ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. Early sales were at a decline to 76½c, but buying by St. Louis scalpers and some commission houses caused reaction to 77½c. Sentiment was divided, however, and on prospect of increased movement and good grading of new wheat, together with good weather and absence of foreign demand tone became easier. September closed at a loss of ⅛c, December ⅛@¼c. Floor traders were in and out of the market and the situation at times was extremely nervous. Liverpool steady to ⅝d higher. New York at close reported eighteen boat loads accepted.

Corn—Nervous and quite unsettled, with trade of moderate volume. Close showed September ⅜@½c lower, December ⅜@½c easier. May off ⅛@⅜c. Transactions were more local in character and the market weak and strong by turns. The start was easy, the continued favorable weather and claim of Price Current that outlook for the crop was improved possibly affecting local sentiment. Locals and southwest purchased and a moderate rally followed, but later the price reacted with wheat. The large amount of contract switched from private elevators attracted considerable attention. On the coast thirty boat loads were taken.

Oats—Were weaker and July broke 2c under selling by elevator interests and New Yorkers. Support came from the bull interest, which rallied prices ¾c at the close. Distant futures lost ⅛@⅜c, closing at bottom. Selling was in sympathy with break in wheat and corn and falling off of buying support toward last of the session. Cash business was slow.

The slump in stocks carried it down to 46¼, compared with the previous low record of yesterday at 46¾, and the last price was only ¼c better. The break in smelting extended to 3¾. The movement depressed the whole market, which had rallied at one time quite generally 1 to 2 points over last night. Closing quotations:

NO FALSE CLAIMS.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a "sure cure for consumption." They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases, but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stages and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey and Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. J. A. Obermeyer, druggist.

THE AGILE OSPREY.

A Hungry Bird and a Tragedy of a Trout Stream.

A big brown and white bird came sailing up the trout stream, his long wings stretched far out to right and left. He flew slowly, for he was looking for something—something that he wanted very much. He was doing his family marketing. Up in the top of a big pine tree a mile away his wife was sitting on a nest full of eggs, and it was both his duty and his pleasure to find a supper for her. Suddenly he stopped short. He had caught sight of the thing for which he was searching—a dusky, shadowy shape, with an outline like that of a submarine torpedo boat, lying moveless in the clear water. For just an instant he seemed to hang poised in the air, but it was only long enough to change the direction of his motion; then down he went with a rush and a swoop.

The brook trout saw him coming and tried to dart away, but it was too late.

With a mighty splash the osprey struck the stream and went clear under and out of sight, while the water boiled and surged over him. He could not see for the commotion about him, but his aim had been true, and his outstretched feet touched a slippery, slimy, wriggling body that was just beginning to gather headway.

Quicker than a wink his toes closed about it and his sharp talons sank deep into the trout's flesh. Then up he came, rising out of the stream like some fabled monster of old and shaking the water from his feathers in a shower of flying drops. Every thread of muscle in his wings and breast was working with all its might to lift that heavy trout. Up went the bird's great pinions till they were straight above him; then down they came, lashing the air like whips. Up again and down, up and down, up and down, harder and faster, and higher, and little by little he and his victim rose from the stream till at last they were clear of the tree tops, then straight away to the nest in the old pine, where the wife was waiting to make them both welcome.—W. D. Hulbert in Leslie's Monthly.

HIS CARE of BELINDA

By [illegible]

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

"Good morning, Nathan. Bound for town?"

"Yep. I'm goin' to court. This mornin', you know, the will of my poor dear brother Abel comes up for probate."

Blythe Dunton sniffed. "Poor dear brother, eh? You know you hope he wasn't poor, and as long as he lived he certainly wasn't dear. You hated him worse'n poison, and he hated you worse'n that. I am on my way to court too. Dessay I ain't far wrong in sayin' there's a little surprise in store for you, Nathan Darley. Eh, Belinda?"

Belinda did not answer, but trudged along, quietly swishing her remnant of a tail and waving her long ears. Belinda, you see, was a donkey—gray, old and dignified—and in her Nathan at once recognized a former possession of his deceased relative.

"You'll be tellin' me presently," said Nathan, with fine sarcasm, "that my brother left his property to that lame ole mule."

"No, I won't," said Blythe sententiously. "You'll find it out soon enough without my tellin' you. Your brother had to leave his property to some donkey, you'll admit. Maybe he preferred one he loved to one he didn't."

Old Judge Smith had taken his place when they arrived at the courthouse.

"Will of Abel Darley, formerly of Baslow Heath," called one of the clerks, and two lawyers stepped forward to the counsel table. Nathan's representative, James Burroughs, who labored under the local pseudonym of "Screw Jim," was first. He was closely followed by Ged Smith, brother to the judge and proponent of the document.

The crowd leaned forward in rapt attention as the clerk commenced to read the will. The disposition of Abel's property had been the subject of endless speculation throughout the district, and half the voting population were there to listen.

The clerk began in a droning monotone, "I, Abel Darley, being of sound and disposing mind, do hereby make, publish and declare the following as and for my last will and testament." The next few lines of technical commonplace were lost in a jumble of inarticulate speech. Then the clerk raised his voice:

"All my estate, both real and personal, I give, devise and bequeath to my beloved friend, Blythe Dunton, as trustee for the following purposes: To invest the same and to apply the income and as much of the principal as may be necessary to the care, education, maintenance and well being of my beloved friend and donkey, Miss Belinda. On the death of the said Belinda the remainder is bequeathed to my brother, Nathan Darley of Baslow Common."

When the clerk had finished, Screw Jim arose to address the court. "If your honor please, I object to the probate of this will on the ground that the chief beneficiary is an improper person in the eyes of the law and incompetent to inherit. The will is invalid."

"Hear him!" shouted Ged Smith. "Improper person! She ain't a person at all. And as for her bein' incompetent to inherit, it isn't so. If you can show me a statute on the books of this great and free commonwealth that forbids a donkey to be an heiress, I want to see it. She ain't a lunatic, is she? She ain't a corporation or a body politic. She ain't a married woman. She ain't a alien. In fact, there isn't a single law framed by the legislature of this liberty lovin' state that impugns in any way the testamentary provision of our late friend and citizen."

The court interrupted. "Mr. Burroughs, you represent the residuary legatee, Mr. Nathan Darley. If you can show me a single precedent upholding your contention, I will deny probate. Otherwise I must admit the will. Mr. Dunton, you may consider yourself guardian of Miss Belinda. A moment, please. Is—is your ward in court?"

A titter ran around the room as Dunton appeared leading the four footed charge down the center aisle of the courtroom. There she stood, blinking solemnly and apparently oblivious of her good fortune. When the court inquired in a sepulchral tone whether "Miss Belinda, surname unknown, knew any reason why Blythe Dunton of Baslow Hill should not be appointed her trustee and lawful guardian," she gave no sign of disapproval. The crowd left the courtroom. Blythe Dunton [illegible] and removed Miss Belinda. [illegible]

From that day Belinda lived in style. She was sumptuously installed in the [illegible] of the Dunton homestead, which was converted into a stable for her benefit.

[illegible]

... he is dead? Then why [illegible] ...

In three days Blythe returned. He came through the town in the [illegible] ... A week later he was summoned to court.

"I have been informed that your ward is dead," said Judge Smith. "If that be the case, your guardianship is terminated. Can you produce her?"

"Of course I can," said Blythe. Then he added meaningly: "If anybody thinks Belinda is dead, I would like to meet the gentleman and hear his proofs. Fact is, somebody entered my home two Sundays ago and poisoned one of my animals, but Belinda is home at this present moment chewin' the cud of contentment. If you would like to see her, judge, I'll bring her round." And there the matter dropped.

Six months later Blythe Dunton's house burned to the ground. The insurance companies said the fire was of incendiary origin, but they were unable to prove it, and after some interesting litigation they paid the policies. Once more an evil minded gossip asseverated that during the progress of the fire he had seen the carcass of a donkey lying across the threshold of the Dunton house. Blythe was summoned. He appeared at once, leading his donkey to court. The opposition when called upon to prove that the animal produced was not the donkey heiress failed signally.

Belinda was confusingly versatile and changeable in character. For an entire year after a circus had passed through the town she exhibited tricks and talents that no one would ever have suspected. The following spring she lost her cleverness and suddenly developed a temper that brooked no approach within six feet of her heels. Her girth, too, varied marvelously. One summer she waxed fat and large. By winter time she had become meager and scrawny. The decline was temporary; when the sun came out and painted the apple trees she resumed her former sleekness. Fickle was Belinda, even to her tail. That interesting member fluctuated between hirsute length and bony brevity in a manner that created no little astonishment.

So matters went for five years, during which Belinda earned a tremendous reputation. So pronounced was local pride that no less than ten men were ready to make oath that Belinda was born upon their farms. Blythe Dunton basked in the light of prosperity and liberally denied the pretensions of no one.

The following winter he died. His last words were, "Take care of Miss Belinda." That was impossible, for his administrator reported that all of the Darley fortune had been spent. As he crossed the Dunton garden patch a queer sight met his eyes. He saw before him nineteen mounds of brown earth, and over each of them a wooden slab. The slabs were all alike except their dates and each of them bore the inscription:

> HERE LIES BELINDA.

Justice Two Centuries Too Late.

In October, 1635, Roger Williams because of his inspiring pleas for individual liberty was ordered by the general court of Massachusetts to leave the colony forever. He went to Rhode Island, where he lived for nearly fifty years. But the official conscience grew a little restless, and some years ago, in April, 1899—Massachusetts actually made atonement for its rash act. The original papers, yellow, faded and crumbling, were taken from their pigeonhole tomb and "by an ordinary motion, made, seconded and adopted," the order of banishment was solemnly "annulled and repealed and made of no effect whatever."

The ban under which Roger Williams had lain for over 260 years was lifted. And there is no reason now, according to law, why Roger Williams cannot enter the state of Massachusetts and reside therein. The action was to the credit and honor of the state; it was right in its spirit, and Roger, being in the spirit for more than two centuries, may have smiled gently and understood. But the reparation was really overdelayed.—From "The Power of Truth," by William George Jordan. Published by Brentano's.

Native Made an Useless Bell.

A missionary in Travancore, India, saw one morning a native coming to his house with a heavy burden. On reaching it he laid on the ground a sack. Unfastening it, he emptied it of its contents—a number of idols.

"What have you brought these here for?" asked the missionary. "I don't want them."

"You have taught us that we do not want them, sir," said the native, "and we think they might be put to some good use. Could they not be melted down and formed into a bell to call us to church?"

The hint was taken. They were taken to a bell founder and made into a bell, which now summons the native converts to praise and prayer.—London Globe.

ENGINEER HAVEY DEAD

KILLED IN C., P. & ST. L. WRECK THURSDAY.

Fast Freight Train Running Off of Orders Crashed Into a Pay Car—Accident Occurred Near Chesterfield.

Dennis Havey, an engineer on the C., P. & St. L. road was killed in a head-end collision between a fast freight and a pay car near Chesterfield Thursday morning. Two trainmen were badly injured, Wm. Madison, chief car inspector, arms crushed; Arthur Taylor, brakeman, legs injured. Both of the injured men were Springfield residents. Mr. Havey formerly lived here and was a brother-in-law of William H. Anderson.

The wreck caused the abandonment of train service on the road temporarily, and it was late in the afternoon before trains could pass the scene of the accident.

Springfield trainmen manned both trains, but it was the occupants of the pay car and engine who suffered most. Both engines were demolished and Engineer Havey was crushed between his engine and the water tank.

The scene of the wreck is in a deep cut one-half mile south of the Macoupin water tank and between Chesterfield and Challacombe, two flag stations fifty miles south of Springfield. The through northbound freight, No. 44, which is due in Springfield at 12:46 a. m., was delayed in St. Louis and was ordered to await the passing of the pay car at Challacombe. Engineer Green, of the freight, it is said, disregarded his orders and ran past the meeting point.

As engine No. 120, drawing the fast freight, cleared the sharp down grade curve and entered the cut where the accident occurred, engine No. 28, hauling the pay car, entered the opposite end of the cut less than one hundred yards distant. The engines were reversed and both crews jumped for safety. Havey remained at his post on No. 28 a moment too long and did not escape.

Among the trainmen who sustained slight injuries are Conductor Harvey G. Hobbs, of the freight, who resides in Springfield, and Conductor Bennett, also of Springfield, who was in charge of the pay car train.

A wrecking train left Springfield at 10 a. m. in charge of General Superintendent Gridley for the scene of the wreck.

Engineer Havey was 45 years of age and is survived by his wife and son 6 years of age. He was well known in this city and was very popular with a large circle of friends. As an engineer he was regarded an especially safe and efficient man.

MANUAL TRAINING

Miss Brown Talks of Work Proposed in the Public Schools.

Miss Anna Brown, of Aurora, the new teacher in the public schools, who will have charge of the course in manuel training, which will be introduced in the high and graded school courses for the first time the coming year, arrived in the city Thursday, and is here to look over the ground and to make the preliminary arrangements necessary to the introduction of the course. The course offered will be confined altogether to wood work. There will be three classes a day, with 20 pupils in a class. It is not the purpose of the course to fit the pupil for a trade, but to learn to make drawings, read the same and from the readings make whatever article is intended.

Mechanical drawing lessons will be given once a month. These will consist in tracings, etc., leading up to the making of blue prints. The course will be compulsory with the pupils in the graded schools and optional with the high school pupils.

The course includes the preliminary steps in mechanical, civil and electrical engineering and also architecture. The idea of the course is to educate the hands with the brains and each class will meet once a week. From this fact it will be readily seen that it is not the purpose of the course to teach the pupil a trade, but to accustom his hands to the use of tools and mechanical instruments.

Two rooms in the basement of the high school will be given up to this work and there will be ten double benches with accommodations for two pupils at a bench with separate kit of tools for each. There will also be the general equipment of tools not in frequent use.

What the pupil makes becomes his own property and under no condition are the articles sold. If for any reason a pupil desires to make more than one article of a class or some special article for his own use he must furnish the material at his own expense. All material used in the ordinary class work, however, is provided by the school authorities.

Miss Brown comes fully prepared for the duties of her position, having graduated from the Lewis institute in Chicago and having taught in the same department in the public schools of Chicago. She seems to think that the work is one that will prove very interesting and that ample. As soon as the new course is started in the fall the parents of the pupils and all friends of the school interested will always be welcome at the rooms of the manual training department.

The Green Sea.

There is no sea to which the name green sea is applied in topography, but the term is used as descriptive of parts of the ocean with appropriate significance.

Where the gulf stream is deflected from Newfoundland toward the Azores is the Sargasso sea, the surface of which is a mass of floating seaweed. Its popular name among sailors is the Green sea nowadays, and in earlier times it was noticed with astonishment by Columbus and his sailors, while its weed clad waters were called by others the seaweed meadows.

A part of the Persian gulf is also known by this name on account of a remarkable strip of vividly green water which is seen along the Arabian coast.

Many other large tracts of the ocean possess this distinctive tint, which may be due either to the presence of vast masses of microscopic plants or living animals, or to the color of the bottom, as the waters of

MARRIED IN DECATUR.

James G. Winterbottom of This City Weds Miss Jarman of Camargo.

James G. Winterbottom, of this city, and Miss Nell B. Jarman, of Camargo, were quietly married Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Decatur. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Penhallegon in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church, and was very simple, only intimate friends of the young people being present.

The announcement of the wedding will be a surprise to Mr. Winterbottom's friends in this city, as only the immediate families of the bride and groom had been informed of their intentions.

Mr. Winterbottom is the oldest son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Winterbottom, of this city, and is a young man of energy and decision of character. More than this, he is of that cheerful sunshiny disposition, which makes him friends wherever he goes. Graduating from Illinois college in 1902 he was employed for a time at the Deaf and Dumb in this city, and afterward went to Chicago, where he holds a position of trust.

The bride formerly attended Illinois Woman's college here, and is a lady of many sweet characteristics, which endeared her to many friends during her attendance at that school. She is very popular in her home community and is a highly cultured and accomplished young lady. She became acquainted with Mr. Winterbottom while both were students and the friendship then commenced ripened into love.

The many friends of the newly married couple will wish them all happiness for the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Winterbottom will arrive in this city Saturday for a short visit with the groom's parents, after which they will go to Chicago to make their home.

London, July 16.—The few morning papers which comment on announcement that the state department at Washington has received assurances from the Chinese government it will shortly open several ports to the world's trade congratulate Secretary Hay on the success he has gained in admission of the principle of "open door" in China, and, while expressing great suspicion that Russian diplomacy has left some troublesome conditions in reserve they are inclined to believe Hay is too astute to be put off with a mere paper concession.
